ABOUT INITIATIVE

AUTISM, LIKE A RAINBOW, HAS A BRIGHT SIDE AND A DARK SIDE AND EVEN THOUGH IT CAN MEAN ROUGH WEATHER, IT CAN BE BEAUTIFUL.
– STUART DUNCA

Autism Awareness is a newly developed capstone initiative that is established under the Members' Administration. The purpose of this initiative is to provide education, information, and resources about Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) so that the membership may be more knowledgeable about the subject matter, and thus, engage, inform, and impact local communities of color.

Autism is a complex developmental disability which affects a person's ability to communicate and interact with others.

Signs of autism usually begin to show during the early childhood years. Autism affects a person's ability to communicate and interact with others. As a result, persons on the autism spectrum display behaviors that may include challenges with executive functioning, delayed development of language, lack of eye contact, poor motor skills, and sensory sensitivities (Autism Society, 2016b). As well, they may have a difficult time understanding 'typical' social cues and social behaviors and may face challenges engaging with those around them. Autism looks different for every person and affects everyone differently—that's why it's called a "spectrum".

Children of color tend to be less often and later diagnosed (Autism Speaks, 2021). Being diagnosed at a later age suggests socioeconomic concerns and knowledge deficits about the disorder and typical developmental milestones as barriers. Unfortunately, these barriers lead to delayed access to evaluations, diagnosis, and services.

In 2020, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention issued their ADDM autism prevalence report. The report concluded that the prevalence of autism had risen to 1 in every 54 births in the United States – this breaks down to 1 in 34 boys and 1 in 144 girls (Autism Speaks, 2021). Autism is one of the fastest growing neurological conditions in the world.

Embrace the initiative in your community to make a difference in the lives of those on the autism spectrum and their families.

Mission To be the premier organization that provides noteworthy contributions in education, research, and funding for persons of color who are impacted by the autism spectrum disorder .

Vision Improve the lives of people of color affected by Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) by championing autism awareness, increasing education, advocacy, and funding.

Valerie Hollingsworth-Baker 25th International President

Greetings,

I am delighted to present the Member's Administration Inaugural International Autism Resource Guide.

As an organization, one of our primary programs focuses on spreading awareness and education about Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD). It is not only important that we provide scholarship and service to our communities, but it is also essential that we provide an outline of professionals and services our great sisterhood can access for additional support.

The international autism awareness team has worked diligently in researching and gathering community connections that will provide outstanding services to those affected by ASD such as individuals, parents/guardians, and those serving in a caregiving role. I want to thank them for offering their time, talent, and expertise in vetting these resources.

This guide includes resources that span across the organization's eight regions. It is a fluid document that can be adjusted based on the changing norms of ASD. I hope that you find this resource guide useful, and I encourage you to share this valuable information with other individuals and families.

Thank you, Sorors, for all of your efforts in helping your communities educate themselves and accept individuals with ASD and their loved ones. This is what Zeta is all about.

Sisterly Yours,

Grand Val

Valerie Hollingsworth Baker

Lynéa N. Laws, Ph.D. Autism Co-Director Education & Awareness

Greetings!

It has been an honor and labor of advocacy support to lead the efforts on creating this resource guide. Our team has spent countless hours researching and verifying the programs listed in this guide. It is our hope that this resource will be beneficial to stakeholders within our community.

We understand that often times parents, guardians, and community leaders are unsure of how to assist those in need and feel powerless as a result. The resource guide will aid in bridging that gap for all parties.

In Service,

HOW TO SUCCESSFULLY USE THE GUIDE

Purpose

The resource guide serves to provide current information on support and mental health services, camps, respite care, and funding. The information covers the continental 48 states and The Bahamas. It is not an all inclusive guide due to their being a plethora of resources in some states and very limited in others. The guide is meant to serve as a living document. This will allow for on-going updates and aid in maintaining a current resource guide.

Audience

The resource guide is for parents, guardians, community leaders, service and support organizations, schools, and any person requiring information to support individuals on the spectrum.

Search

The resource guide is organized by category (General Information, Camps, Funding, Guardianship, Mental Health Services, Respite Care, and Support Services), then state. The state listings are in alphabetical order.

General Information

The General Information section includes organizations that are relevant to all states. These organizations have information and provide services that are applicable to every state in the continental United States.

Holding Hands

(323) 938-3434
www.holdinghandsinc.com/

Our story started way back when a little girl named Ziba would play with her dolls. Her play themes always intrigued her parents, as she would always pretend (through symbolic play) that her dolls were hurt and she would take care of them by bandaging their eyes because they were blind, or make a wheelchair out of cardboard boxes because they could not walk. At the young age of 7, Ziba had no idea what a therapist was, so when people would ask her what she wanted to be when she "grew up" she would say, "A nurse, so I can take care of people who can't see or walk."

The Texas Young Autism Project is the original and first Applied Behavior Analysis treatment program for children with Autism in Texas. It began when Dr. Gerald Harris saw the increasing numbers of children in the Houston area who were being identified with Autistic Disorder and knew that there were no treatment services available for them. Dr. Harris had focused his Clinical Psychology practice on helping children in need and understood the importance of helping this underserved community. A family support group had formed in Houston, Families for Effective Autism Treatment (FEAT), and coordinated with Dr. Harris and Dr. O. Ivar Lovaas to establish an ABA treatment program for children with Autism in Houston.

Holding Hands

Beverly Blvd
Los Angeles, CA 90057

(323) 938-3434
www.holdinghandsinc.com/

Our story started way back when a little girl named Ziba would play with her dolls. Her play themes always intrigued her parents, as she would always pretend (through symbolic play) that her dolls were hurt and she would take care of them by bandaging their eyes because they were blind, or make a wheelchair out of cardboard boxes because they could not walk. At the young age of 7, Ziba had no idea what a therapist was, so when people would ask her what she wanted to be when she "grew up" she would say, "A nurse, so I can take care of people who can't see or walk."
